Key Takeaways

Huijue is a professional Chinese manufacturer specializing in wire and cable trays, energy storage cabinets, and telecom infrastructure solutions.

Company Overview

Huijue, officially known as Shanghai Huijue Network Communication Equipment Co., Ltd, was established in 2001 and is headquartered in Shanghai, China. The company operates a 10,000 square meter R&D and technical center in Shanghai and a 50,000 square meter mass production facility in Jiangsu province, focusing on metal precision production, assembly of cabinets, and optical fiber products. Huijue also produces energy storage systems and industrial cabinets under the Huijue Group brand.

Cable Tray and Wire Management Products

Huijue manufactures a wide range of wire and cable management solutions, including: Wire mesh cable trays: Lightweight, ventilated trays suitable for industrial and commercial wiring. Cable ladders: Prefabricated metal structures providing maximum ventilation and load capacity for cable systems. Perforated cable trays: Designed for easy installation and enhanced airflow, protecting cables from overheating.

Cable trunking and accessories: Hot-dip galvanized, stainless steel, PVC, and fiberglass options for diverse applications. These products are widely used in telecom infrastructure, commercial buildings, industrial plants, power stations, and high-rise construction projects.

Manufacturing Capabilities

Huijue emphasizes precision metal fabrication and assembly, leveraging advanced production lines to ensure consistent quality. Their facilities support large-scale production of cable trays and related components, meeting both domestic and international standards. The company also provides customized solutions to accommodate specific project requirements.

Global Reach and Services

Huijue offers worldwide service and support, including energy storage solutions for telecom bases, residential, and commercial applications. Their products are certified and designed for reliability, ensuring long-term performance in critical infrastructure. The company also integrates smart energy management systems for optimized efficiency in energy storage applications.

Summary

Huijue is a comprehensive manufacturer of wire and cable trays, offering ladder, perforated, and wire mesh systems, along with energy storage and telecom cabinets. With large-scale production facilities, R&D capabilities, and global service support, Huijue is positioned as a reliable supplier for industrial, commercial, and telecom wiring projects.
